Sigma Xi Scientific Research Honor Society Interest Form

Hello and welcome!

If you are interested in joining a growing community of student and faculty researchers, networking, mentorship, learning about others' research, and more, please consider joining Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Honor Society! Sigma Xi was a huge part of our lives (Morgan and Mitch!) in undergraduate and it's an organization we're looking forward to growing here at Berkeley and UCSF for grad and undergrad students. Currently it's only a few students and faculty, but our vision is to make it a big and strong chapter full of life again through mentorship, community outreach, and sharing our science passions! If you're interested in learning more about Sigma Xi or possibly joining, please fill out this 2 minute form so we can distribute more information! (This is a non-binding interest form and you can opt out of emails at any time!)

If you have any questions, please don’t hesitate to reach out! (morgan.pfaff@berkeley.edu)

Courses Opportunity

Studying for graduate-level exams like the MCAT, OAT, GRE, etc., is often stressful and unstructured. To get more help and earn a higher score on the exams, consider buying a Kaplan Course Certificate. AMSA is offering limited certificates at a price less than half of their market value! This course certificate is currently being auctioned with the lowest bid starting at only $899, while the original price of the same is $1800. All the collected proceeds from the sales will go towards helping our organization make your lives easier as a pre-health student! Study for Prospective Experimental Psych Ph.D. Students

Our names are Zahira Flores and Melanie Montejano, and we are undergraduate students at Heritage University. We are supervised by Dr. Amy Nusbaum. We are conducting a research study to learn about the admissions experience for prospective experimental psychology Ph.D. students, in addition to exploring the factors that contribute to preparation for the admission process. With these findings, we hope to give undergraduate students clarity to know what is expected of them in the graduate school application process and help graduate programs clarify and improve their admissions procedures.

We are recruiting individuals who meet all of these criteria:

1. Attend a four year college/university
2. At least a junior in standing
3. Psychology majors
4. Are planning on applying to an experimental psychology program for a Ph.D.

If you decide to participate in this study, you will be asked to complete an anonymous survey through SurveyMonkey. The survey will take approximately 15 minutes. You may skip any question you feel uncomfortable answering and all responses will be kept anonymous.

During this activity, you will be asked questions about your demographics (race/ethnicity, gender, year in school, household size, income, citizenship status), academic experiences, knowledge of the graduate application process, and involvement in extracurricular activities. If you are interested in participating in this study, please click this link: www.surveymonkey.com/r/psychgrad. If you have any questions, please contact us at: nusbaum_a@heritage.edu

Applications Now Open: UC Berkeley MNSD

Applications are now open!
The 21-month Master of Nutritional Sciences and Dietetics (MNSD) program at UC Berkeley prepares students for a career as a registered dietitian nutritionist.

Our program is held in-person with all coursework taking place on the UC Berkeley campus, and all supervised practice training rotations take place within the San Francisco Bay Area. Graduates of any bachelor’s program are welcome to apply for admission as long as they have completed the prerequisite coursework. Applications for enrollment in fall 2023 are now open.

Swan Award - Call for Nominations Due October 28th

The Swan family has generously donated funds in memory of Katherine Craig Swan, a 1932 Berkeley graduate in Psychology, to support undergraduate research in the Psychology Department. As a Psychology undergraduate student, we invite you to submit a proposal for this annual award. Chosen proposals will be awarded up to $500 to fund the proposed research. In addition, Swan Research Award recipients will be acknowledged at the annual Commencement Ceremony of the Psychology Department.

The faculty of the Undergraduate Awards Committee will review applications and will award funding to the best proposals and most deserving applicants for this annual competition. In order to be considered, the application and proposal must be received in the Student Services Office by 4pm on Friday October 28.

Please find the proposal form and application on our website. If you have any questions about this award, your eligibility, or the proposal timeline, please don't hesitate to ask.

Chicago Booth Research Opportunities

The University of Chicago Booth School of Business has launched its fall recruiting cycle for pre-docs. Pre-docs (sometimes called Research Professionals or full-time RAs) are two-year full-time appointments working directly for faculty on their research in the quantitative social sciences (QSS), like economics, business, political science, behavioral science, and others. Students who are interested in graduate study in QSS fields but do not yet feel ready for a PhD program, or who are uncertain whether they want to pursue a PhD, find these positions to be especially useful. These are competitively paid positions with full benefits. Students can sign up to hear about new job opportunities when they are ready to apply (e.g., a freshman could sign up to hear about new postings in three years). The PREDOC Consortium also provides a wealth of programming and information sessions, as well as guides to the pre-doc application process. PREDOC’s offerings are growing rapidly, so students should sign up to receive updates.

Staff at Booth and PREDOC are more than happy to answer any questions you or your students have about pre-doctoral opportunities. Please email us at ResearchProfessional@lists.chicagobooth.edu or info@predoc.org with any questions or to arrange a meeting or information session. Please don’t hesitate to reach out as one of our goals at Booth is to reduce as much as possible the informational frictions surrounding these positions, to help you advise your students effectively.
Pursuing a Career in Mental Health: A Comprehensive Guide for Aspiring Professionals

By Professor Ann F. Garland

Pursuing a Career in Mental Health helps demystify the world of mental health by identifying the best educational path for people interested in this career and by giving them the resources to prepare for success. Designed to prepare students to excel in training and in careers in practice, the book offers an introduction to the topics addressed in graduate study across disciplines, exploring important issues relating to current and future mental health practice. Throughout, mental health professionals share inspirational wisdom to build realistic expectations and highlight key decision points.

Features:
- Provides comprehensive information about the disciplines of counseling, marital/couples and family therapy, psychology, psychiatry, psychiatric nursing, and social work, along with an expansive array of job possibilities
- Offers practical guidance about masters versus doctoral degrees, graduate admissions requirements, educational costs, and salary projections
- Teaches how diversity and inclusion issues, as well as laws and ethics, impact mental health
- Recommends multimedia resources to continue preparing for a career in mental health

Call for Submissions for Revista N’oj Issue 6: Decolonial Disability Justice - Applications Due October 27th

The Latinx Research Center invites you to submit your work for Issue 6 of Revista N’oj! The topic of this issue is: Decolonial Disability Justice.

Upload your work to https://tinyurl.com/RevistaNojIssue6
We accept poetry, short form fiction and nonfiction, creative writing, scholarly essays, photo essays, audio submissions, short film, and artwork

About the Topic

During colonialism, any person that did not conform with that of the white male settler was deemed ‘defective’ or ‘disabled.’ BIPOC folx who were considered unproductive, women who were ‘unchaste,’ and people that embodied racial-sexual differences, were punished for their difference.

This targeting of people marked as disabled is continued today, especially against those with physical and neurological impairments. Disabled people continue to experience violence, segregation, and sterilization in the United States and in our Latinx communities/countries. Consider that people with disabilities represent about 50% of the incarcerated adult population, and that the forced sterilization of disabled people is legal in most states. This issue of Revista N’oj asks you to consider:

- What do we learn by distinguishing our physical/neurological impairments from the disabling contexts of our environments?
- How is white supremacy tied to ableism?
- Why should the responsibility for disability justice be a collective responsibility?
- How are issues of reproductive justice, choice, and sexuality tied to the fight for disability justice?
- Why is the struggle for disability justice also a decolonial struggle?
- How do Latinx communities reproduce the colonial logics of disability?
Summer 2023 Applications Open! University of Washington MA in Applied Child & Adolescent Psychology - Deadline November 15th

The Master of Arts in Applied Child & Adolescent Psychology: Prevention & Treatment.

This program prepares students for careers providing clinical prevention and intervention services to children and adolescents in various settings including schools, community organizations and health care facilities. Based on a bioecological model of child development, the master’s degree provides students with a background in biological, interpersonal and contextual processes that contribute to child psychopathology. Students are also trained in the use of evidence-based treatment programs for improving children’s mental health outcomes. Plus, through the program practicum, students gain real-world experience observing and practicing treatment models in local clinical mental health settings.

Our students study under nationally recognized experts in child psychology affiliated with the Department of Psychology, the Department of Psychiatry & Behavioral Sciences, and the University’s Center for Child & Family Well-Being.

For full-time students, this 53-credit program lasts five quarters (summer–summer). We also accept a few part-time students annually who we expect to complete the program in two years and one quarter. Most classes take place starting in the late afternoon. Practicum schedules, which average 16-20 hours a week, are arranged with the practicum site supervisor.

The deadline to apply for Summer 2023 is November 15, 2022. To find out more, add your name to their mailing list, or to apply, visit their website at appliedchildpsych.uw.edu. You may also contact Program Specialist Chelsea Melton at 206-543-3067 or psychma@uw.edu.
