Volunteer Opportunity at UCSF Department of Psychiatry

The Anna Molofsky Lab at UCSF studies the role of glial cells and the immune system in brain development. We are looking for a motivated graduating senior to join the lab starting in June or July, to participate in our research program and provide technical support. This is a great opportunity for an undergraduate student who would like to get more research experience before applying to PhD or MD/PhD programs. A two-year commitment would be ideal. View the job posting here (<https://protect2.fireeye.com/url?k=f10d002b-ad4d6d7d-f10d2736-0cc47adb57f0-1570a71cd4d092bc&u=https://bit.ly/2OIDlr8>), or contact us directly at anna.molofsky@ucsf.edu.

Research Opportunities at UCSF Memory & Aging Center

The Memory and Aging Center (MAC) at UCSF is a multidisciplinary research program investigating neurodegenerative disease across a broad spectrum of clinical and translational research settings. We are currently looking for up to 12 UC Berkeley student volunteers to join labs focused on topics ranging from socioemotional processes to prion diseases to healthy aging. Students will have the opportunity to work with patients in a clinical setting, perform literature reviews, attend grand round lectures, analyze research data, and engage in various other educational and practical activities.

Interested students should expect to commit 8-16 hours per week to this position. Funding may be possible for underrepresented students through NIH Diversity Supplements; please check for eligibility here (https://grants.nih.gov/grants/guide/pa-files/pa-18-586.html#_Section_III_Eligibility). As well, this position may qualify for UC Berkeley course credit.

Please review the complete list of labs with openings here, and submit applications through this Qualtrics survey. (https://ucsf.co1.qualtrics.com/jfe/form/SV_ePdYEuGPDUX5vh3)

➤ Islamophobia Conference and Exhibit, 4/8-30/2019

Celebrating 10 Years of the International Islamophobia Conference at UC Berkeley
A library exhibit and book display

When: April 8-30th, 2019

Where: Ethnic Studies Library (30 Stephens Hall)

The 1st International Islamophobia Conference commenced at UC Berkeley in Spring 2019 response to the intensification of Islamophobia and bigotry documented in the 2008 U.S. presidential elections.

During the elections and his presidency, the heritage of candidate Barack Hussein Obama II was a focal point of attack from right-wing movements. The Birther Movement and Tea Party emerged onto the national stage utilizing Islamophobic discourse to undermine the legitimacy of his presidency. In reality, attacking Obama's Muslim-ness or the use of the "M" word was a substitute and a signpost for the "N" word, which was not publicly acceptable. Thus, Islamophobia was coded to express anti-Black and anti-immigrant racism and at the same time framed as patriotic undertaking to defend the country from supposed Muslim infiltration and terrorism. Since Obama's presidency, Anti-Muslim sentiment has been packaged and monetized into votes at the ballot box in the 2010 midterm elections and all subsequent elections.

The Center for Race and Gender's Islamophobia Research and Documentation Project (IRDP) initiated the International Islamophobia Conference to examine the racialization of Muslims in the US while situation it within a global comparative paradigm. Since 2009, the conference has become the hub for scholarly engagement on Islamophobia Studies with IRDP serving as the academic flagship for all research and research network related to the field. The 10th Annual International Conference is an occasion to celebrate the emergence of the academic field, to take stock of what research was undertaken and to explore ways to address existing gaps and build upon the body of scholarship in the field.

➤ Undergraduate and Graduate Gown Lending Project Application Now Open, 4/19/19

We are pleased to announce that the EOP Graduation Gown Lending Project Spring 2019 application is now open! Graduation can be an exciting moment for students, however the cost of purchasing a cap and gown can be a burden that impede students from fully enjoying their academic achievement. GGLP's mission focuses on alleviating the financial burden graduation expenses have on students. We are excited to continue extending our resources to Master and PhD students!

Gowns are distributed on a first come, first serve basis so students are encouraged to apply early. In order to qualify, a student must either be: 1) Low-income and/or 2) First Generation and/or 3) Historically Underrepresented, OR a Graduate Student. Two separate applications will be available and will be closing on Friday, April 19, 2018 at 11:59pm. Unsure of EOP status? Stop by the EOP office in 119 Cesar Chavez to be verified or apply to be EOP here.

Gabrielle Bendiner-Viani "Contested City: Art, Activism and Urban Renewal"
April 22, 6:30-8:30p
170 Wurster

Artist, activist and urbanist Gabrielle Bendiner-Viani will speak about her five years of work with community members and urban planning students at a 14-square-block area in lower Manhattan that remained vacant for many years after being cleared for redevelopment. She recently published Contested City: Art and Public History as Mediation at New York's Seward Park Urban Renewal Area, a chronicle of both the area's fifty years of community activism for affordable housing and the community-engaged pedagogy she created with both students and community members. University Press Books will offer her book for sale at the event. More

CFP Embodying the Periphery

Deadline TODAY April 15

The editors of Embodying the Periphery invite scholars, activists, artists and practitioners to share their investigations of the periphery through the bodily lens—not only through the methods of the social sciences but also of the arts and humanities, architecture, and city planning. Human interplay with non-human materials means that urbanity is embodied via techniques of the body just as much as it is objectified as the spatial form of the city itself. This is an interdisciplinary publication of the UC Berkeley Global Urban Humanities Initiative. More
