BLK + WIMMIN + CYBORGS

AFRICAM 139.1
TTh 12-2PM | Class #15351 | Session A
Instructor: Malika Saramaat Imhotep

This course approaches these questions through critical engagements with literary and popular representations of the black woman as a cyborg, an entity who is both human and machine. While Donna Haraway has argued that the cyborg is a figure without an origin story, this course sets out to trouble that notion by paying close attention to the ways ‘feminist cyborg theory’ intersects with the concerns of Black Studies. Pulling from a range of media texts from the speculative fiction of Octavia Butler to the unapologetically vulgar videos of Lil Kim, this course utilizes black feminist theory and creative production to explore the relationship between the black female body and technology.
GLOBAL LANDSCAPES OF NEW AFRICAN SLAVERY

AFRICAM 139.2
TTh 10AM-12PM | Class #15352 | Session A
Instructor: G. Ugo Nwokej

 Millions of Africans are held in bondage today conditions worldwide in conditions that fit what is generally referred as new or contemporary slavery. What do we mean by “new slavery” and how does it compare with historical understandings of slavery? Is this slavery even new? How do we rise beyond the oft-exaggerated reports from the NGOs? Can we describe the conditions of most “new slaves” in the same terms we do of the enslaved Africans in the Americas? While answering these basic questions, this course aims will examine the dimensions, patterns and characteristics of new slavery in the context of changing political economies, review the anti-slavery campaign and attempt an explanation of the persistence of slavery despite these efforts.
In this course, we will explore historical relationships between blackness, technology, network infrastructure, and the law. Beginning from the imbrication of slavery with industrial and modern development in the nineteenth-century United States and culminating in an exploration of black cultural production and political mobilization in the present, this course seeks to demonstrate the centrality of technology and infrastructure in the social and political lives of black peoples.
Summer 2021: College Writing Courses

College Writing Programs is offering College Writing R1A in Session B this Summer. We have two sections: section 1 class number 10621, section 2 class number 10630.

Successful completion of this course will satisfy both the Entry Level Writing Requirement as well as the first half of UC Berkeley's R&C requirement. Because of the amount of work involved, this is a 6 unit course. My recommendation is that an enrolled student should concentrate on passing this course instead of enrolling in other demanding courses this Summer.

This course is being taught asynchronously.

Please email me directly if you have questions about this course (mikepalmer@berkeley.edu, Enrollment Manager). Please read the course description first that's on the online schedule in the Berkeley Academic Guide.

We are offering creative writing courses in the writing of fiction, poetry, drama, and non-fiction in Sessions F and E this Summer. This is a link to a list of these courses along with course descriptions and bios of the faculty:
https://writing.berkeley.edu/courses/summer-creative-writing-workshops
ColWrit N131, The Craft of Creative Nonfiction
This course in creative writing focuses on the craft of reading and writing creative nonfiction. The course emphasizes an introduction to craft—how creative nonfiction is generated, what its elements are, and how finished pieces work—which students will explore through careful study of models by published writers, and through writing and revising their own short pieces.

ColWrit N132, The Craft of Short Fiction
This two-unit creative writing course on the short story emphasizes an introduction to craft—how short stories are created, what their elements are, and how the finished pieces work—which you will explore through careful study of models by published writers and through writing and revising your own original pieces generated for this class.

ColWrit N133, The Craft of Dramatic Writing
College Writing N133 is a creative writing course offering an introduction to the craft of dramatic writing through the study of works by professional playwrights and through composition and revision of your own playscripts. You will come to understand dramatic writing as an art and as a set of skills; you will receive an introduction to some of the elements involved in the creation of written scripts. Particular emphasis will be given to the work of generating and revising writing and, to a lesser degree, for the screen.

ColWrit 134, The Craft of Poetry
This two-unit creative writing course on poetry & poetics emphasizes an introduction to craft—how poems are created, what their elements are, and how the finished pieces work—which you will explore through careful study of models by published writers, and through writing and revising your own original pieces generated for this class.

ColWrit 135 The Craft of Creative Writing: Workshopping & Performance*
This is a practical and personalized class that will help writers workshop and perform their creative work. Open to multiple genres--fiction, nonfiction, drama, poetry--we will discuss how to ask good questions to and integrate feedback from peers in workshop. We will help you revisit your work and produce a sustainable revision process for yourself. We will discuss how to select your work for public reading and presentation, and we will practice effective performance strategies. Above all, the class will be tailored to support your goals through individual consultation with the instructor.
*Note: ColWrit 135 is worth 1 unit.

 American Cultures Requirement

https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-colwrit-25ac-001-lec-001

In this course, we will read, discuss, and write about the expectations of the American educational system, especially within a multicultural context. The goal is to deepen the understanding of the history and diversity of American educational institutions, while strengthening reading and seminar participation skills through critique and analysis of communication patterns. This course is intended for international students.

Summer 2021: COLWRIT 151 - Professional Communication

For any students intending to major in business or pursue a career in business, the College Writing Program is offering a course designed to improve communication skills:

Introduction to Principles of Professional Communication
This course introduces students to key principles and rhetorical strategies of writing texts in non-academic settings. Although the course may address issues of oral communication, the primary focus will be on learning and practicing strategies to generate written documents in a business context.

INDENG 190E 001 - SEM 001
2 Units
Summer Session D
Class search page

The Sutardja Center for Entrepreneurship and Technology (SCET) is offering a new class "Design of Affordable Plant-Based Foods" (INDENG 190E) for 2 units this summer. Note that this class can be used towards the SCET Certificate in Entrepreneurship and Technology.

What will you do in this class?
The goal of this class is to explore the design of affordable, minimally processed plant-based foods (PBF). Working in teams you will learn the food science and economic principles needed to determine how plausible (or not) this is. The class considers technical readings, team presentations, as well as lectures from industry, investors and entrepreneurs working on PBF. At the end of the course, your team will design an innovative PBF that may be a real alternative for low income customers.
Course Opportunities: Week of May 10, 2021

Who is this class for?
Due to the nature of this class topic, it is highly recommended that students have a strong background in biological sciences, chemistry, chemical engineering or related disciplines. Students from other backgrounds who are interested in the class topic are also welcome to apply as we will form interdisciplinary teams.

Summer 2021: UGBA Courses

With Berkeley Summer Sessions enrollment in progress, we want to remind students that enrollment into UGBA classes are on a first come first served basis in the summer and as such, Non-Haas majors are encouraged to enroll. Please note that prerequisites are not enforced during the summer. The listed prerequisite(s) that students see affiliated with some of our upper division UGBA courses serve as a guide to alert students that at the very least, an awareness or knowledge of a particular course is needed to achieve a minimum understanding of the course. Therefore, students who wish to take UGBA courses in the summer will need to use their best judgement to determine if they can reasonably handle the course without having completed the listed prerequisite(s).
Below is a list of open and available UGBA classes in Summer 2021 Session A (6 weeks session), which starts on May 24th. I would appreciate your help in promoting these classes to your respective students, especially to those interested in Marketing, Finance or Business Sustainability. Summer Sessions are the best time for your students to take Business classes because our enrollment is OPEN to all majors and is strictly on a first come first serve basis.

As a reminder, students can enroll in these upper division Business courses even if they have not met the listed prerequisites on the catalog. The listed prerequisite(s) that students may see affiliated with these UGBA courses serve as a guide to alert students that at the very least, an awareness or knowledge of a particular course is needed to achieve a minimum understanding of the course. We encourage non-Haas majors to take UGBA classes in the summer because the prerequisites are not enforced in the summer, unlike the regular Fall/Spring semesters.

UGBA 132 Lec 001A (Class #13306) - Financial Institutions and Markets; Units: 3.0

UGBA 160 Lec 001A (Class #13316) - Customer Insights; Units: 3.0

UGBA 165 Lec 001A (Class #13318) - Advertising Strategy; Units: 3.0

UGBA 192S Lec 001A (Class #13336) - Business and Sustainability; Units: 2.0

Summer 2021: Integrative Biology Courses Open

IB 31 - Ecology and Evolution of Animal Behavior (Class #14002)
Session C - 3 units
Meets Biological Science, L&S Breadth

Principles of evolution biology as they relate to animal behavior and behavioral ecology with broad coverage of animal groups. Special attention will be paid to the emerging discipline of behavioral ecology.

IB 41 - Marine Mammals (Class #13608)
Session C - 2 units
A survey of marine mammal evolution, biology, behavior, ecology, and politics. Coverage would include: origin and evolution of cetaceans, pinnipeds, sirenians, and sea otters; basic biology and anatomy of marine mammal groups, and North Pacific species in particular; and interactions between humans and marine mammals.

IB 51 - Origins and Evolution of Food Plants (Class #15478)
Session C - 3 units

The course will review major groups of food plants from an evolutionary and historical perspective by examining the origins from wild relatives to current distribution and varieties. Examples will be reviewed from a diversity of crops from around the world. General concepts will include plant morphology, evolutionary processes, and relevant ecology. Focus will include California agriculture and crops as illustrated through field trips (or remote alternatives).

Summer 2021: ISF Courses Open

ISF 100A: Introduction to Social Theory and Cultural Analysis

- MTWTH 1-3PM
- location REMOTE
- instructor QUAMRUZZAMAN
- 4 Units
- Class # 13634

This course, required of all ISF Majors but open to all students, provides an introduction to some of the key theoretical foundations of much contemporary inquiry in the social sciences and humanities. Through an examination of the classical work of Karl Marx, Max Weber, and Emile Durkheim, we will explore the central issues in contemporary debates concerning the nature of the socio-economic order, the modalities of power, and the process of cultural production. In addition, we will explore some reflections, elaborations, and criticisms of the classical work by more contemporary social thinkers such as Michel Foucault, Jean Baudrillard, and Pierre Bourdieu. The goal of this course is to provide the student with useful theoretical frameworks for conceptualizing and better understanding the social, economic, political and cultural phenomena that affect our life.

ISF 100B Interdisciplinary Theories of the Self and Identity

- MTWTHF 1-3PM
- location REMOTE
- instructor BHANDARI
- 4 Units
- Class # 14055

This course will explore how people come to develop and value the self as well their specific social identities. The course will draw on anthropology, sociology, neurobiology and philosophy to grapple with that which is most intimate yet often most opaque to us: our own selves. Yet we shall also explore the cultural limits of our unstable understanding of our individuated selves as well as the dialectic of self and other in the formation of identity.

ISF 100D Introduction to Technology, Society, and Culture

- MTWTH 10AM-12PM
- location REMOTE
- instructor BHANDARI

4 units

In this course, we shall explore how advances in AI and genetic engineering may change not only society but the very idea of what it means to be human. In interdisciplinary fashion, we shall combine stimulating pieces from the sociology of science and technology with works of the imagination, such as “Ex Machina”, “Gattaca” and episodes of “Black Mirror”.

ISF 100E The Globalization of Rights, Values, and Laws in the 21st Century

- MTWTH 10AM-1PM
- location REMOTE
- instructor QUAMRUZZAMAN
- 4 Units
- Class # 13922

With the world being globalized, concerns about the role of international laws in safeguarding human rights across different cultures are increasing. This course will address these concerns from an interdisciplinary perspective. More specifically, we will address the following questions: Are cultural values, human rights, and international laws becoming more homogeneous in the era of globalization? What role does the state play in maintaining the specificities of cultural values, rights, and laws? Do states rights inevitably conflict with the global human rights regime? What kind of values, rights, and laws will prevail at the global level?

Summer 2021: School of Information Course

Summer 2021
INFO 114: User Experience Research (3 units-Online)
Laith Ulaby
Tuesdays 4-6 pm and Thursdays 4-6:30pm
Jun 07 2021 - Aug 13 2021

This course addresses concepts and methods of user experience research, from understanding and identifying needs, to evaluating concepts and designs, to assessing the usability of products and solutions. It also includes aspects of managing the research process and working with other stakeholders to communicate results in an effective manner, including recruiting participants, setting up and conducting studies, analyzing qualitative data, and disseminating insights.

The research emphasis is on methods of collecting and interpreting different kinds of qualitative data about user activities and practices, working both individually and with a team, and translating them into design decisions. The course includes hands-on practice with a number of major user experience research methods (such as observation, interview, survey, focus groups, expert review), and requires team activities and group work during class and for most assignments.

We will also touch on a number of applied topics such as research in enterprise, consulting, and startup organizations, lean/agile techniques, mobile research approaches, and strategies for communicating findings and implications.

Summer 2021: Culturally Immersive Virtual Courses

New immersive courses offered in collaboration with Berkeley Study Abroad! These virtual courses are unique from traditional online courses in that they are focused on experiential learning through interaction with international local communities in a virtual setting. There are no additional "program fees" for students to attend these courses, only summer tuition and fees associated with summer enrollment. Here are the courses available:

Summer 2021: Comparative Literature Courses (Sessions A, C, D)

COMLIT R1A: “Viking” Literature in Medieval Contexts
Session A (6 Weeks): May 24 - July 2
TuWTh | 2:00PM - 4:30PM | Course #15110 | 4 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-r1a-001-lec-001

Sagas of outlaws and Viking warriors fated to die. Verses containing wisdom, magic, and myth. Songs of legendary heroes and the treacheries that befall them. Medieval Scandinavians left us a vast literary inheritance in both Old Norse poetry and prose. These texts present a unique window into Scandinavian worldview that emerges on the periphery of the known world during the Middle Ages.

COMLIT R1B: Girl, Interrupted
Session A (6 Weeks): May 24 - July 2
TuWTh | 10:30AM - 1:00PM | Course #14281 | 4 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-r1b-001-lec-001

If the trials and tribulations of girls abound, their being taken seriously occurs with far less frequency—or at least, history has tended to deny both the girl and the exigency of girl problems. This course tries to redress that tendency through a survey of global literature, film, and popular culture by girls and about girls. In other words, how do we take accounts of girlhood seriously, but using the tools of literary and filmic analysis? Some questions we may encounter throughout our course include: How do auto-writings by girls, like memoirs or diaries, make claims to a body? To a self? What does it mean for a girl to have a literary subjectivity?

COMLIT R1B: Revenants
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
TuWTh | 10:30AM - 1:00PM | Course #14282 | 4 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-r1b-002-lec-002

Ghosts haunt literature and art, whether literally, metaphorically, or somewhere in between. This course will examine the ghosts of art across languages, cultures, and time periods, looking at the cultural survival of the dead as well as their impact on the living. How do the dead offer spiritual sustenance and redemptive narratives to the living? How might “the other side” still speak to us in our world? What does it mean to be haunted, anyway? And how do we reckon with the continued presence of the dead among the living?

COMLIT R1B: Phantoms of Contagion
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
TuWTh | 2:00PM - 4:30PM | Course #15003 | 4 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-r1b-003-lec-003

This course will explore the concept of contagion and the fears, real and imagined, that surround it. We will examine the transmission and containment of “infected” or “infectious” ideas and bodies in order to compare the ways that humans respond to crisis, from the level of the individual to the global. Drawing our case studies from literature, film, and television, we will consider the shapeshifting terror of contagion from zombie films to ancient hereditary curses, from the Black Death to the AIDS epidemic, from viral videos to the Chernobyl disaster to our own precarious position in the midst of the COVID-19 pandemic.

COMLIT 50: Creative Writing, Comparative Writing
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
TuWTh | 3:00PM - 5:30PM | Course #15108 | 3 Units
 Meets Arts & Literature, L&S Breadth
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-50-001-lec-001

What is a comparative poetics? Across which boundaries does poetry move—and move us? This creating writing course takes up the question of how poetry moves across form, language, media, the self, geography, and our readerly expectations. Over the course of the summer session, we will pair the practice of writing our own poetry with the critical reading of poetic texts and one another’s work. Each week of this course is organized around a theme: form(ation), translation, mixed-mediation, narrativization, re/ dislocation, and experimentation.

COMLIT W60AC: Boroughs and Barrios: Moving In and Through NYC & LA
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
Online Course | Course #14013 | 4 Units
 Meets Arts & Literature, L&S Breadth
 Meets American Cultures Requirement
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-w60ac-001-wbl-001
Course Opportunities: Week of May 10, 2021

Who comes to the American city, and why? How do visitors, residents, and migrants negotiate and move through “The Big Apple” and “The City of Angels,” reimagining urban life in the process? With these questions in mind, we will spend the summer tracing the crises of im/mobility that mark the histories of these two U.S. urban centers. Highlighting interconnected and transnational moments like the New York immigration boom and growth of Spanish Harlem, the African American Great Migration and Harlem Renaissance, and the displacement of Chicano communities in the Chávez Ravine and East Los Angeles to make way for L.A freeways and ‘development,’ we will give special attention to the ways that New York and Los Angeles’ stories intersect with themes of immigration and shifting constructions of national ‘American’ identity, contests over urban spaces and representations of race and citizenship, segregation and the politics of urban renewal. In the process, we will explore the traversed and imagined landscapes of New York City and Los Angeles through writing, popular music, advertisements, maps, and visual media including photography and film.

COMLIT 156AC: Sounding American: Literature, Music, Technology, and Race
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
Online Course | Course #14168 | 4 Units
 Meets Arts & Literature, L&S Breadth
 Meets American Cultures Requirement
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-comlit-156ac-001-wbl-001

What is meant when we say someone or something “sounds American”? Can a person sound like a certain gender, social class, sexuality, or race? How would we possibly define that sound? And what might it mean to think of a culture by the ways it sounds and listens, instead of how it looks or sees? This course will explore these questions and others by studying podcasts, poems, songs, novels, and the changing forms of sonic technologies like microphones, radios, mp3s, turntables, and more. We will examine the social politics of “vocal fry,” question the relationship between dialect and authenticity, investigate the techno-sonic inventions of hip hop, punk rock, and EDM, delve into the acoustic secrets of Siri and Alexa, and study literature’s role in helping us learn to listen. Authors and songwriters will include Langston Hughes, Gloria Anzaldúa, Richard Wright, Lady Gaga and Beyoncé, Zora Neale Hurston, Black Flag, Harryette Mullen, Bob Dylan, Claudia Rankine, Eudora Welty, Theresa Hak Kyung Cha, David Sedaris, and others.

Summer 2021: French Courses (Sessions C, D)

FRENCH R1B: The French 1960s
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
MTuWTh | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13573 | 4 Units
From the Existentialists to New Wave cinema to the revolutionary student uprisings of May ’68, the 1960’s in France yielded an explosion of cultural and political innovation that still reverberates powerfully into the present day. Why was this? Why do the ‘60s continue to fascinate us in the 21st century? Together, we’ll read and watch a number of classic texts and films from the French ‘60s, and explore its energies from the inside out!

FRENCH R1B: “Strangers in a Strange Land” - The Nation and Belonging
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
MTuWTh | 4:00PM - 6:00PM | Course #13574 | 4 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-r1b-002-lec-002

This course will be oriented toward the development of research skills and the production of two papers. Its theme will focus broadly on how literature shapes the national imaginary and mediates our sense of belonging. Using concepts from Benedict Anderson’s Imagined Communities as a starting point, this class will focus on a variety of texts, principally from traditions of French expression, meant to consider various themes and questions literature helps to answer in creating and sustaining the imaginary of the nation: who belongs to the nation? How should the nation be represented? What is its genesis story? What versions of history should constitute the nation’s shared memory? Texts will range from Kourouma’s masterwork of disenchantment The Suns of Independence, to Bégaudau’s fictionalized account of his experience as French teacher in a schoolroom in Paris in an evolving France. Beyond textual readings, students will develop practical skills involved in the research process including searching for secondary sources, note taking, bibliographical curation, as well as further improving analytic and argumentative writing skills.

FRENCH 1: Elementary French
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
MTuWThF | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13571 | 5 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-1-001-lec-001

Elementary French is a whirlwind introduction to French language and culture. It assumes no prior study of the language. In this class, you’ll learn to navigate simple interactions in a French-speaking environment; to converse informally on familiar topics; to express thoughts simply and clearly in essentially-correct French prose; and to read and understand a variety of texts, from menus to poems. We’ll develop these skills through a sustained engagement with various aspects of Francophone cultures from around the world—including art, music, film, and of course, food! We’ll learn how to think about these cultures with a critical and historical perspective. This class is conducted entirely in French.

FRENCH 2: Elementary French

Session C (8 Weeks): June 21  - August 13
MTuWThF | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13575 | 5 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-2-001-lec-001

This is a second-semester course on French language and culture. It assumes prior engagement with the language: either French 1 at UC Berkeley or three years of high school French with the consent of the instructor. In this class, you’ll develop your ability to interact in a French-speaking environment; to read and understand a variety of texts, from menus to poems; and to converse on topics of increasing complexity. We’ll develop these skills through a sustained engagement with various aspects of Francophone cultures from around the world: art, music, film, and of course, food! We’ll learn to think about these cultures with a critical and historical perspective. This class is conducted strictly and entirely in French.

FRENCH 3: Intermediate French

Session C (8 Weeks): June 21  - August 13
MTuWThF | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #14054 | 5 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-3-001-lec-001

Conducted in French, this is an intermediate language and culture class that aims to consolidate and expand the skills of listening comprehension, speaking, reading and writing in French while introducing students to texts from the French and Francophone cultures. The course aims to promote cross-cultural understanding through the use of authentic materials such as literary works and journalistic texts, multimedia, film, pop songs, and television/radio broadcasts, and other cultural artifacts. The study of these materials will be supported by several technological tools.

Topics covered include family, education, gender roles, urban and suburban life, environmental sustainability, politics, individual and national identities and cultural icons. The course invites comparisons between American and other cultures and those of the French and Francophone worlds through individual reflection, class discussion, work in small groups, and other collaborative formats. In addition to a review and refinement of grammar and vocabulary in a culturally rich context, students also experiment with their written expression through a variety of formats, including journals, creative writing and independent projects using the Internet, as well as textual analysis in French.
FRENCH 4: Advanced Intermediate French
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
MTuWThF | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13576 | 5 Units
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-4-001-lec-001

Advanced training in listening, reading, writing, and speaking French. Review and refinement of grammar. Recommended: My French Lab access; Morton, English Grammar for Students of French The program uses the second edition only. All of the required materials (textbook, student activities manual, answer key and MyFrenchLab) will be available in package form at the Cal Student Store. In most cases, purchasing a package turns out to be cheaper than buying the components separately. Oxford New French Dictionary is included in the package.

FRENCH 121A: At Home Abroad - Francophone Travel Narrative
Session D (6 Weeks): July 6 - August 13
MTuWTh | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13942 | 4 Units
 Meets Arts & Literature, L&S Breadth
 Meets International Studies, L&S Breadth
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-french-121a-001-lec-001

In this course we will examine a number of French and Francophone travel narratives and migrant texts. Our focus will be on the traveler’s gaze as we consider various subject positions such as explorer, tourist, immigrant, and pied-noir.

Summer 2021: American Studies Courses (Sessions A, D)

For both courses, lectures will be a combination of synchronous/recorded and asynchronous/recorded.

American Studies 101: P.T. Barnum and Other Scams
Session A
MTuW 12:00-2:30PM
Class #14996
Instructor: Sarah Gold McBride
4 Units

NOTE: All lecture content will be asynchronous. Class meetings (which will focus on discussion and work with sources) will be held live on Wednesdays 12-2:30 pm.

THIS COURSE SIMULTANEOUSLY SATISFIES THE AMERICAN STUDIES "TIME" AND PRE-1900 REQUIREMENTS.
What can we learn about American culture by studying its scams? In this class, we will closely examine the scammers, grifters, tricksters, and con artists that began to terrify urban Americans in the nineteenth century. As the United States grew more urban, more industrialized, and more structured around capitalism and consumerism, interactions with strangers became a part of daily life for the first time in the nation’s history. From the confidence men who haunted American cities to the “humbug” peddled by showmen like P.T. Barnum, deception seemed to lurk around every corner, and many Americans felt increasingly anxious about their ability—or inability—to tell truth from fiction. Our examination of American scams will focus especially on the middle decades of the nineteenth century (1830–1870), an era during which the nation’s population tripled, Barnum opened his American Museum in New York City, and Herman Melville published his final novel, The Confidence-Man. As we grapple with questions about popular culture, spectacle, consumption, the media, art, violence, race, and the body, we will also consider the resonance and residue of nineteenth-century scamming in our contemporary world.

American Studies 101: The Art of Advertising: Consumption and Culture in Postwar America
Session D
MTW 12:00-2:30 pm
Class #14997
Instructor: Alex Craghead
4 units

NOTE: Lectures will be a combination of synchronous/recorded and asynchronous/recorded. Any student can be accommodated.

THIS COURSE SATISFIES THE AMERICAN STUDIES “TIME” REQUIREMENT

This course examines American society in the postwar period. From the late 1940s through to the early 1970s, economic growth and new technologies fostered a new, mediated, consumerist landscape, one built around advertising. We will look at many forms of pervasive, postwar advertisement—from magazines to billboards, from television commercials to Hollywood films, from graphic design to publicity stunts—and we will give them attention as important if not dominating forms of popular art and culture. In addition to discussing the way advertisements both reflected and constructed American society at mid-century, students will learn a number of approaches to “reading” and decoding advertising images, as well as the broader connections between visual culture and history.
Summer 2021: Creative Fiction Courses (Sessions F, E)

College Writing Programs is offering creative writing courses in the writing of fiction, poetry, drama, and non-fiction in Sessions F and E this Summer. This is a link to a list of these courses along with course descriptions and bios of the faculty:

Summer 2021: Earth and Planetary Science Courses (Sessions A, C, D)

EPS 3: The Water Planet
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
MWF | 10:00AM - 12:00PM | Course #13884 | 3 Units
 Meets Physical Science, L&S Breadth
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-eps-3-001-lec-001

An overview of the processes that control water supply to natural ecosystems and human civilization. Hydrologic cycle, floods, droughts, groundwater. Patterns of water use, threats to water quality, effects of global climate change on future water supplies. Water issues facing California.

EPS W12: The Planets
Session C (8 Weeks): June 21 - August 13
Online | Course #13553 | 3 Units
 Meets Physical Science, L&S Breadth
https://classes.berkeley.edu/content/2021-summer-eps-w12-001-wbl-001

A tour of the mysteries and inner workings of our solar system. What are planets made of? Why do they orbit the sun the way they do? How do planets form, and what are they made of? Why do some bizarre moons have oceans, volcanoes, and ice floes? What makes the Earth hospitable for life? Is the Earth a common type of planet or some cosmic quirk? This course will introduce basic physics, chemistry, and math to understand planets, moons, rings, comets, asteroids, atmospheres, and oceans. Understanding other worlds will help us save our own planet and help us understand our place in the universe. This course is web-based.
Course Opportunities: Week of May 10, 2021

EPS 20: Earthquakes in Your Backyard
Session A (6 Weeks): May 24 - July 2
TuTh | 2:30PM - 5:00PM | Course #13554 | 3 Units

Summer Session D
M-Th, 10-12:00PM

HA182
Photography in the 20th Century: Sex, Race, and Medicine
Ty Vanover

The terms “medicine” and “photography” both convey a sense of objectivity. In reality, however, neither medicine nor photography are entirely objective; both are shaped by, and in turn shape, cultural discourses on normativity, health, and superiority.

Moving across time and space, from Parisian hysteria hospitals to the AIDS wards of San Francisco, we will confront photographs that challenge our conceptions of truth and ask us to reconsider medical science’s sometimes troubled relationship with images.

No background in art history necessary!

ART 8: Introduction to Visual Thinking
A first course in the language, processes, and media of visual art. Coursework will be organized around lectures and studio problems that will introduce students to the nature of art making and visual thinking.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm
- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART 12: Drawing - Foundations
Students will explore a wide range of approaches to mark making, composition and materials for building a drawing practice. This course is a recommended prerequisite for upper division Drawing classes.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm
- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MTWR, 1:00pm-5:00pm

ART 13: Painting - Foundations
Students will learn about and challenge painting conventions as well as experiment with odes of viewing, producing and engaging with painting within historical and contemporary contexts.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART 15: Ceramics - Foundations
Students will develop a practical understanding of how clay braves, while building a conceptual framework through which to apply this knowledge. Methods include hand building, modeling, carving, and alternative ceramic processes for turning ideas into three dimensional artworks.

- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART 21: Digital Photography - Foundations
This course introduces students to technical skills including manual functions of digital cameras, image creation and capture, file management and workflow, image adjustment and digital printing.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 1:00pm-5:00pm
- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART W23AC: Data Arts
Through online assignments, peer reviews and video chats, students will create artworks that challenge data culture through creative interventions including surveys, visualization, animation, video, interaction design, music and other forms of digital expression.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MWF, 1:00pm-6:14pm

ART 25: Graphic Novel - Foundations NEW CLASS!!
Using creative research methods of analysis, fabrication, and collaboration, students will create their own graphic novel elements as artistic responses to their diverse life experiences. Students will examine the relationship between text and image, frame and page, page and narrative arc, imagination and reality, and finally, book and audience.

- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART 26: Moving Image - Foundations
A practical and critical introduction to moving image media, focusing primarily on independent and experimental film and video art. Students learn video production and post-production and are introduced to key moments and concepts in moving image history and criticism.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 8:30am-12:30pm

ART 103: Advanced Painting - Reconsidering the Portrait & Figure
This studio course investigates representations of the human body across different periods and locations to further what it means to depict the body in the 21st Century. How do dominant signifiers and various intersections of race, gender, class, religion, sexuality, and disability influence the rendering and image reception of human bodies?

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, MTWR, 1:00pm-5:00pm

ART 119: Global Perspectives in Contemporary Art
This seminar course is designed to explore a range of contemporary art movements around the globe, through a closer look at their central ideas, artists, and artworks, as well as the preconditions and broader social context in which the work is being produced.

- Summer Session A: May 24-July 2, RF, 1:00pm-6:00pm
- Summer Session D: July 6-August 13, MT, 1:00pm-6:00pm

ART 180: Advanced Digital Photography

Summer 2021: Chinese Culture Courses

CHINESE 1A 001 - LEC 001
Class #:14085
Session A May 24 2021 - Jul 02 2021
M, TU, W, TH 9:00 am - 11:59 am

Elementary Chinese
The course is designed for students who are of non-Chinese origin and were not raised in a Chinese-speaking environment; or who are of Chinese origin but do not speak Chinese and whose parents do not speak Chinese. The course develops beginning learners’ functional language ability—the ability to use Mandarin Chinese in linguistically and culturally appropriate ways at the beginning level. It helps students acquire communicative competence in Chinese while sensitizing them to the links between language and culture.

CHINESE 1B 001 - LEC 001
Class #:14087
Session D Jul 06 2021 - Aug 13 2021
M, TU, W, TH 9:00 am - 11:59 am

Elementary Chinese
The course is designed for students who are of non-Chinese origin and were not raised in a Chinese-speaking environment, or who are of Chinese origin but do not speak Chinese and whose parents do not speak Chinese. The course continues to focus on training students in the four language skills—speaking, listening, reading, and writing with a gradually increasing emphasis on basic cultural readings and developing intercultural competence.

Intermediate Chinese
The course further develops students’ linguistic and cultural competence. In dealing with texts, students are guided to interpret, narrate, describe, and discuss topics ranging from real-life experience and personal memoire to historic events. Intercultural competence is promoted through linguistic and cultural awareness and language use in culturally appropriate contexts.

Filipino Mythology
We will be reading Philippine myths, legends, indigenous poetry and epics. This includes traditional narrative forms such as the alamat (legends) and the kuwentong-bayan (folktales) and poetic forms such as the ambahan, diona, and tanaga. Among the questions the course explores are: How can we understand the way of life and belief systems of the ethnolinguistic groups of the Philippines through their literatures? How do the dynamics between orality and literacy come into play in these Filipino literary texts? How have traditional forms been revitalized and transformed by writers to articulate contemporary concerns such as poverty, land reform, women’s issues, and human rights?
Course Opportunities: Week of May 10, 2021

Philippine Cultural Politics
Can a song inspire a revolution? The course focuses on literary, visual, and performance texts that participated in political discourses in the Philippines. What strategies did the writers and artists employ? How did writers and artists face issues of censorship and persecution? How did social movements influence these texts, and in turn, how did these texts contribute to these social movements?

Philippine Cuisine Narratives: Sinigang Stories
Have you tasted sinigang, lumpia, adobo, or for the adventurous, even balut? This seminar course focuses on Philippine cuisine and literary works that use Filipino food as inspiration, theme, or metaphor. Each class uses a particular dish, cooking method, or Filipino ingredient as a starting point in the discussion of Philippine literature, culture, and history. Each lesson has several components: a literary text, recipe/s, a participative class activity and an essay(s) that will help the students to have a better understanding of Philippine society.

Narratives of Vietnam and Vietnamese Diaspora
Together we will read and view a variety of stories—told primarily in the form of prose fiction, poetry, essays, films and other visual art—by Vietnamese and overseas Vietnamese writers and artists who explore the consequences of colonialism, war, migration and resettlement for individuals, families and communities using vastly different aesthetic techniques and registering multiple social, cultural, political and personal concerns. We will attend especially to the ways in which war and postwar generation artists and writers define and refine what it means to be Vietnamese and diasporic Vietnamese in changing local, regional and global contexts, and how the past and present continue to be intertwined in our lives and narratives. This course will be taught remotely.

Neurodiversity in Literature
This course will investigate how neurotypical and neurodiverse authors depict and discuss neurodiversity. By first seeking to understand what is meant by the term “neurodiversity”, we will pay particular attention to how the autistic community have embraced it. We will give special emphasis to two Japanese authors: Nobel Prize-winner Oe Kenzaburō and Higashida Naoki. To better contextualize the two main Japanese authors, we will read essays on disability and neurodiversity in Japan. Taking a comparative, cross-cultural approach to this topic will bring into relief the different ways in which neurodiversity is understood, depicted and expressed; and the unique difficulties with representation relative to the respective cultures we study.
Fall 2021: New Arts and Humanities Courses

HUM 100 Transfer Foundations
M/W 2-3pm; Friday discussion sections
Prof. Maura Nolan (English)

This course is designed for new transfer students, and will provide the tools and supports necessary to succeed in upper-division coursework in the Arts and Humanities at Berkeley. Working together in collaborative hands-on workshops in the Active Learning Classroom, students will master the major skills of humanistic study: critical reading, active listening, literary and cultural analysis, examination, participation, research, writing, and revision. Learning from panels of senior transfer students and visiting professors, this class will build a large and supportive cohort of new students, a community that is astoundingly diverse in its makeup but united in its aim to make Berkeley an intellectual home.
HUM 105 Arts Entrepreneurship
M 2-5pm, W discussion section
Richard Andrews (Music)

This course provides students interested in the arts and/or business with an opportunity to develop an idea for an arts organization and turn it into a functioning, sustainable enterprise. Building on each student's own connection to the arts, the course teaches how to invent an arts organization, define its mission, locate the organization within a community, develop its offerings via products, services, and public programs, and manage the organization's numerous operational features.

Fall 2021: Middle Eastern Languages and Cultures (MELC) Course

MELC 10 Middle Eastern Worlds: Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia (4-credits)

Instructors:
Dr. Rita Lucarelli, Associate Professor of Egyptology
Dr. Benjamin Porter, Associate Professor of Middle Eastern Archaeology

This co-taught course introduces students to the worlds of Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia through its languages, texts, art, and architecture. Emphasis is placed on Ancient Egypt and Mesopotamia as well as their neighbors in Iran, Turkey, Arabia, and Africa. Students are introduced to scholarly techniques including philology, archaeology, visual analysis, and digital humanities. Topics include urbanism, kingship, science, religion, death, and more. The course also explores how European and Middle Eastern societies have responded to this ancient evidence and the challenges surrounding the care of cultural heritage today. Students will interact with original materials in campus and Bay Area museums as well as pursue creative and collaborative projects with their fellow students. Professors Lucarelli and Porter as well as guest speakers from the Berkeley faculty and beyond will share their latest discoveries with the class. This course will satisfy two L&S Breadth Requirements, pending the university’s approval.

The renaming of the Near Eastern Studies Department to the Middle Eastern Languages and Cultures Department in July 2021 offers an opportunity to rethink how we appreciate the region’s ancient and modern peoples. This course explores the diversity of ancient Middle Eastern societies while pushing against paradigms that reduce them to unfortunate stereotypes.

No prior experience is required and all students are welcome. Students with interests in archaeology, art, history, languages, literature, and the Middle East will find the course of particular interest.

Class Number: #31025

All we know comes to us via our consciousness — experience or awareness of thoughts, feelings, and perceptions. However, it is a deep mystery as to how physical processes of our brain and body relate to the subjective experience of the mind.
We invite students to embark on an investigation of consciousness that explores territory beyond the metaphysical framework of physicalism (or materialism) that dominates contemporary science. For investigation of the mind-body relation to reach a place of truly expanded insight, revolutionary developments in our scientific and epistemological approaches are required.

To that end, we explore spaces of inquiry that take seriously the occurrences that sit at or beyond the limits of explicable within contemporary science. We also reflect on how, in the modern West, we arrived at this narrow materialist understanding of consciousness.

This is an advanced intensive writing seminar. Students will be asked to complete various writing assignments throughout the semester along with the required readings.

Fall 2021: Undergrad Food Studies Course with Research Stipends, 5/15

The Arts & Humanities Dean’s Office is offering a new Mentored-Research Lab supported by a grant from the Mellon Foundation. In a 3-unit research seminar, students from across the university collaborate with a professor, grad student mentor, and peers on research and creative projects around the topic of local histories and food studies. The courses are open by application and include a $500 department award/research stipend for each student. Very brief student applications are due by May 15, 2021, at this link: https://forms.gle/zpSNwYbYpqQprDA07.

Jill Miller (Art Practice)
Thursday 2-5pm

In this course, students will use local libraries, archives, and oral histories to create artistic projects about food culture. We will use collaborative techniques like workshopping and community cooking to spark curiosity and develop research that combines food studies with archival research and studio art. First, we’ll delve into local food history and explore materials at the Bancroft Library, Berkeley Historical Society, and African American Museum where we’ll uncover lost recipes, remedies, and stories. Our findings will shape projects that critically examine historical documents and probe the limits of the archive itself. Field research includes workshops with local archivists, seaweed foraging with regional experts, tea and stories with Ohlone chefs, and visits with local artists who use food to create socially engaged art. In the second part of the semester, students will be mentored through their individual or collaborative projects and will reflect on their classmates’ research through critiques and small-group conversations. Students will have the option to create a final project in a form of their choosing, including zines and artist books, essays, video installations and films, performance art, or community collaborations. The class will culminate with an art exhibition and digital publication. No art experience is necessary, but students should be prepared to make creative projects in an experimental setting.
